Dear Friends,

" Publish or Perish"

With the growing interest and practice of evidence based medicine any practioner in the field of medicine is required to have publications in indexed journals.

With editorial boards becoming more and more stringent in selection of articles, it is necessary to have a basic knowledge on study design and manuscript writing.

This one day CME with the experts in the field of research will provide practioners with the basics of getting published. An interactive session with the speakers will let you clear all your doubts on how to get international acclaim for your name and work.
